RUSSIANS AND GERMANS ARE WILD FOR WAR

Although England Still Hopes for Peace, She is Preparing for War—Serbs Said to Have Prevented Advance of Austrians Into the Morava Valley—St. Petersburg Excited Over the Prospect of Fighting—France Awaits the Action of Germany Before Making a Move Herself.

London, Paris and Vienna reported last night there is still hope that a general European war may be avoided. Austria and Russia have renewed "conversations" in an effort to reach an agreement.

But St. Petersburg reports that Russia expects no results from these peace parleys, because of Germany's attitude.

All army reserves in St. Petersburg were called to the colors.

Russian troops destroyed the frontier bridge on the Warsaw-Vienna railway, and abandoned the mail train to Berlin.

Germany established martial law and prohibited virtually all exports. The telephone line to Paris was closed at four o'clock.

All international trains into Germany were suspended by the Kaiser's government. Mobilization of the entire army is predicted for today.

England's fleet in the far east abandoned We-Hsi-Wei and sailed under sealed orders. The Chinese base will be Hongkong.

The huge battleship fleet of Great Britain is reported to be in the North Sea, ready for attack on the German fleet, at Kiel.

Serbs are reported to have hurled back the Austrian invaders, at Semendria. Fighting continues along the River Drina.

War a Question of Hours.

Paris, Aug. 1.—That war is apparently a question of hours was the belief admitted by the French foreign office today.

France has ordered the general mobilization of 4,000,000 soldiers on Sunday.

War Crowds Demand Speech.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—War crowds forced Chancellor Van Bethann Hollweg to make a speech today. He concluded his remarks by saying: "In the gravity of this hour I remind you of the words of Prince Frederick Karl to the men of Brandenburg, 'Let your heart beat to God, your fist to the enemy.'"

Has Russia Invaded Austria?

Berlin, Aug. 1.—Germany has been compelled to put the entire empire in the hands of troops because of the Czar's mobilization. A war decree has been issued and all German steamships and railways are held by the government. A report is in circulation that Russia is invading Austria. Heavy purchasing for the German army yesterday afternoon sent the price of food staples soaring 75 per cent.

Bridge Blown up by Russians.

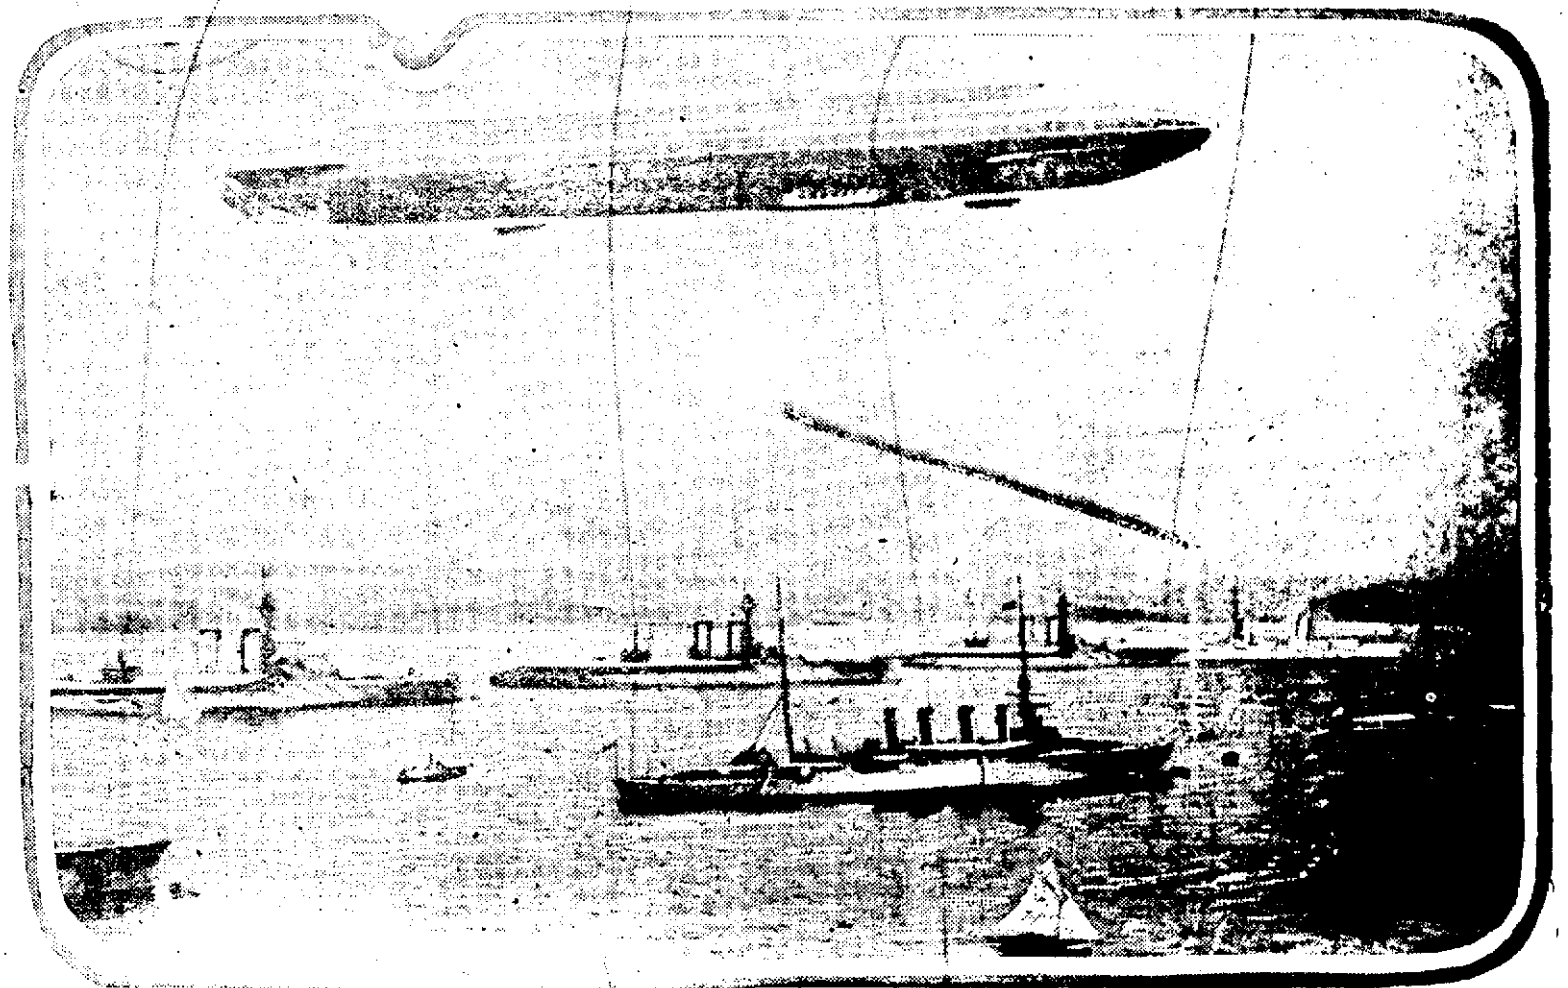

Berlin, Aug. 1.—(Passed by censor) A series of explosions were heard on the Russian side of the Austro-Russian frontier at Myslowitz early yesterday and the czar's troops are reported to have blown up a big bridge messages received here declare.

GERMAN AIR FIGHTER FLYING OVER BRITISH FLEET.

The above photograph, taken during the recent visit of the British fleet to German waters, shows a German army dirigible hovering over the English battleships. Should Europe be thrown into a general conflict as a result of the present Austro-Servian war, balloons and all other types of flying craft will play an important part.

All the nations involved are well supplied with aerial fighters with the exception of Serbia, which has only a few aeroplanes.

A NARROW ESCAPE

James Connelly Falls Almost Under Wheels of Pennsy Train.

Friday afternoon James D. Connelly, chairman of the Democratic county committee, while attempting to board the 1:15 o'clock train at the Pennsy station almost lost his life. Just as the train started from the station James rushed from the ticket office with the intention of getting on a car. His feet slipped on the platform and he fell with his feet almost under the wheels.

Bystanders were horrified and the members of Vance McCormick's campaigning party expected to lose their local guide, but A. M. Liveright, Esq. was nearby, and with rare presence of mind pulled the chairman from danger.

One of the plants, raided by the government agents is in Columbus, the other two plants are in Providence, R. I. One of the largest concerns involved is in Chicago.

No child should miss the first day, for there are many pleasant hours in store for the children of Clearfield at the playground, and the child who misses any of them will be sorry. The aim of the playground will be to teach the child to play fair and keep them off the street.

2500 WORKMEN MET BY PINCHOT

The Washington Party Candidate Broke All Records Thursday

MANY MEN PLEDGE SUPPORT

Friend of Labor Heartily Cheered When He Asked Carpet Mill and Packing House Employees to Help Him Drive Penroseism From the State.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—Gifford Pinchot, Washington party nominee for United States senator Thursday broke all records in his hand-shaking campaign when he grasped the hands of 2500 of the industrial workers of Philadelphia. In the enthusiasm of the men and in the number of pledges of support, it was the most remarkable day of his remarkable campaign.

Mr. Pinchot met a cordial reception in the morning at Water and Mifflin streets, where he greeted 1500 men going to work between 6 o'clock and 7:30. They live for the most part in the First and Thirty-ninth wards, dominated by Vane brothers.

Don't Like Penrose.

The working men had all heard of Pinchot and his fight against Penrose. When they saw the tall figure shaking hands they crossed the street in squads and formed in line, that they might meet the Progressive nominee.

Other men who passed on and heard their fellows talking about Pinchot turned back on their way to work to greet Mr. Pinchot.

His request, "Help me beat Boies Penrose," got hearty responses. One big fellow said: "I hope you beat him. We don't like that fellow, anyway." Another said: "You're the boy, Pinchot. You'll beat him." Another man's answer was: "My mind was made up long ago for you. I haven't any time for Penrose."

The Useless Penrose

Penrose is useless to Pennsylvania.

He has become a "moral issue" at Washington, just the same as here. He will never again be a factor in the senate.

Even now the leaders of the Republican party ostracize him. The New York Tribune, representing the most powerful element in the Republican ranks, and the historic mouthpiece of the party, has issued a trumpet call to the Republicans of Pennsylvania to defeat Penrose and elect Gifford Pinchot.

Not one Republican leader of national repute will come to Pennsylvania to battle for Penrose. He is a barnacle on his own party. He is recognized as the Jonah who alienated from it popular support. Until he is dropped no progress is possible.

The Republican leaders at Washington, men who are trying to win the confidence of the country, will have none of him. They cannot afford to have the blight of Penroseism soiling their policies and they avoid him like a burnt child the fire.

He knows that. He knows he is not wanted there, even by his own party leaders.

Knowing this he has become the most conspicuous absentee of the senate. The Public Ledger of Philadelphia in a dispatch from its Washington correspondent, dated June 13, reported that according to the clerks of the senate, Penrose was continuously absent from the first week of January.

The official records showed that Penrose did not vote on a single measure that came before the senate since the Christmas holidays.

With the Democrats in control of the government, Penrose is as helpless in affairs as the most disreputable of his heels.

The Republicans won't have him. The leaders of that party would just as soon take Penrose into a position of influence as they would nominate Standard Oil Archbold or crooked "Bill" Lorimer for the presidency.

Penrose is done, and the Republican leaders at Washington know it. The group of manufacturers who are spending money in Pennsylvania for Penrose know it. Their argument that Penrose would obtain good committee places in Washington if the Republicans came into power again is the rankest sort of buncombe.

They know and Penrose knows that he will never again be permitted to assume a place of influence at Washington. The Republican leaders want to save their party, they don't want to stand it up again to get another 1912 dose.

Penrose was at his summit when special privilege controlled the country and when Aldrich, Foraker, Lorimer and Smoot were in command.

Lorimer has been kicked out of public life in disgrace. Aldrich saw the storm of popular disapproval gathering and withdrew. Foraker dropped out and now Penrose is tottering at the edge, a lonely antagonist of destiny.

His call will come in November and he will drop like the rest of his crowd, like Aldrich, like Lorimer, like Foraker, into the abyss of public disapproval.

With him will go the stench of the $25,000 certificate of deposit from Standard Oil; his record of support for the disgraceful and crooked Lorimer, his infamous title of having been one of the "brazen four" who attempted to rescue Archbold, the notorious Scranton judge who was dragged from the bench for irregularities by the United States senate.

In a last desperate effort to save himself Penrose is calling on the liquor interests, the beneficiaries of the special privilege tariff bill that he helped to frame; the coal barons whom he helped by defeating legislation sorely needed to protect the miner, and the great corporations whom he helped by inflicting on the people the present iniquitous public service law.

But the people of Pennsylvania who will elect a United States Senator will not elect Penrose.

Every honest Republican knows that Gifford Pinchot stands for a sound, honest, protective tariff. If he votes for Pinchot he votes for a protective tariff.

Every honest Republican knows that the leaders of his party who want to frame an honest tariff law for the benefit of the whole people, rather than for special privilege, can work much more effectively with Gifford Pinchot than with Boies Penrose.

Pinchot comes clean; Penrose doesn't. Pinchot stands for honest protection, Penrose stands for special privilege protection.

Pinchot stands for the kind of a protective tariff the people want; Penrose stands for the kind of a tariff the trusts and magnates want.

The people know the difference and that is the reason honest Republicans will help to put Penrose out of public life.

WAYS TO MAKE BROOM LAST

Care of the Article Will Result in Prolonging its Usefulness a Considerable Time.

Buy a good one. Before using, bring water to a boiling point, add salt pour over broom to toughen and make stronger. Do this at least once a week afterward.

Cut top of old stocking and run down over broom beyond the lines of stitching to hold parts together, and prolong usefulness.

Cut groove around top of handle; tie twine in same and always hang up. Do not stand it up, as that spreads it, loosening parts and wearing it out more quickly.

A screw eye inserted into top of handle is even a better convenience for hanging it up.

When worn short, cut last row and second row of stitching. Pull out twine loops. This will make it last a couple of months longer. Then cut third last row and prolong usefulness another few weeks.

An old sweater or piece of flannel made in shape of bag with drawstring at top, dipped in kerosene, wrung out and then slipped over an old broom and drawn up will make an excellent nap and dust gatherer on painted floors, under beds, etc.

A clean cotton bag made and used in the same way will dust down side walls and remove cobwebs without soiling paper or paint.

COVERING FOR SMALL TABLE

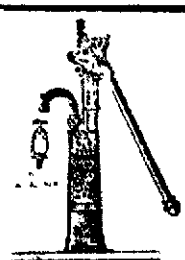

Case Where Scrap of Otherwise Unserviceable Material May Be Employed With Good Effect.

Have you a favorite small table whose top is hopelessly marred? If so, don't relegate it to the attic but try to cover its top neatly with some sort of substantial material that is in the house. Look about and see if there isn't something which will answer perfectly. Nearly always precisely such a scrap can be found. Figured damask fitted smoothly over the top of a table and secured to it with short, slender tacks concealed under a narrow tinsel gimp makes a pretty cover and so do any of the printed cretonnes edged with cotton gimp. Some people use the attractive square pillow tops if the tables surface is not too large for them to cover, and others use hand embroidered canvases. If one does not mind the expense of having a sheet of glass cut to the required dimensions, a really choice piece of handwork or an old print may be used under the protecting transparency. A wide strip of gimp pasted partly over the edges of the glass and partly over the edges of the table will firmly hold the double covering in position.

Chicken Croquettes.

The sauce for croquettes must be thicker than an ordinary white sauce. Use one quarter cupful of flour, two level tablespoonfuls of butter and one cupful of milk seasoned with onion juice and a dash of celery salt. Cook five minutes. To this amount of sauce add two cupfuls of chopped cooked chicken, mix well and cool. Shape into little rolls or cones. Beat one egg with a tablespoonful of water and roll the croquettes in this. Dip the eggs over all the surface so that it may be entirely coated then cover with sifted bread crumbs in the same way. Fry in smoking hot deep fat. Some tastes prefer two or three gratings of nutmeg in the sauce but this flavoring must be used with care.

MELANGE OF LATEST SPORTING GOSSIP

BY FRANK G. MENNY
(By International News Service)

The American trotter and pacer breeders are at last have revolted against the practice of selling their best horses to European horse lovers. James Tranter, of the Fisir-Tipton company, returned a few weeks ago from an extensive trip throughout the country in quest of record stallions and mares. And he returned almost empty handed.

"I offered some of the farciest prices on record," declares Tranter, "but as soon as the horse owners learned that I wanted the animals for European markets they refused to sell. It seems that the American breeders have banded together to frustrate any further attempts on the part of the European breeders to get the fast American horses."

The pugs evidently fail to realize the fact that summer is in our midst—and has been for six weeks or so. Instead of taking a rest, of getting from within the focus of the sporting spotlights so that others may have a chance, the pugs have been more prominently mentioned in the last six weeks than any other athletes.

Since June 26 the Johnson-Moran, the Ritchie-Welch and Gombot Smith Carpentier fights have been staged—undeniably—the most important fights in more than a year. That they were all held in Europe didn't lessen the interest here, nor did it lessen the newspaper space that usually is given to such an event. When space is limited and a good portion goes to one subject—fighting—it means that the real summer sports must suffer in consequence.

The baseball public is being treated again to a rather thrilling spectacle—of seeing the veteran slubmen in the American and National leagues practically heading their respective organizations.

Mathewson of the Giants has been up around the top of the old league since the season began and it looks right now as if he will have the greatest year in his 14 year history as a big leaguer.

And Plank also in his fourteenth year has been pitching a better article of ball than at any time since he took up quarters under the big tent. It has been his work that has kept the Athletics in the front and may win the pennant for them. When others on the Athletic pitching roster have failed,

KAUFF RANKS WITH BEST FED HITTERS

Benny Kauff, Ford Hitting Hoosier.

The Feds may not be offering as good a sample of the national pastime as the American and National leagues, but there is one individual enrolled with an outlaw team who defies his cap to no one. His specialty is hitting, and in that respect he equals any of the famous sluggers in the other circuit, not even excepting Ty Cobb of the Tigers.

This particular player is in our midst today and is a member of Bill Phillips Hoosiers. His name is Kauff Benny Kauff.

Russell Ford, star hurler of the Buffeds, and at one time a member of the New York Yanks, is authority for the above statement. Russ' words may be taken in all seriousness, for the former Highlander has faced Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and the recognized sluggers of the age. When the Buffalo team was here on its last visit, Ford, in an argument as to who

ed, Plank has delivered—Plank the vet, who was counted down and out a dozen years ago by the "wise men" of baseball!

This seems to be a great year for recruit infielders. Among those who have "arrived" accompanied by many plaudits, are Stock of the Giants, Kavanaugh of the Tigers, O'Mara of the Dodgers, Leary and Wares of the Browns, Nuhoff of the Reds and Burns of the Tigers, seven.

The strangest part of it is that not

Kauff was lost to organized ball back in the days when Hal Chase was managing the Yankees. Hal had him, but refused to waste time in giving him a thorough trial. Kauff drifted to the New London club, and led the Eastern association with 176 hits in 135 games for a mark of 345. He possessed all of his hitting ability while with the Yanks, and feeling that he was being done an injustice had no hesitancy in joining the Feds when an offer was made him.

Kauff is the most dangerous hitter in the Hoosier circuit as well as being the best. His work has been a large factor in the success of Bill Phillips team.

one of these seven were heralded as of big league calibre. They were known to have certain ability but the ability looked to be on the bush league order—that is until they were given a chance. And then they came through with a rush.

Stock has plugged up the big hole at third left by the desertion of Tally Shafer. The Giants have missed Shafer since the season opened. O'Mara looks like one of the best shortstops in the National league. Early in the season Ebbets thought so little of him that he was thinking of letting him loose without giving him a chance to perform. But Dick Egan "cracked" and Ebbets gave O'Mara a chance. Now you couldn't buy O'Mara from C. Holiday for $20,000.

Leary and Wares have been two of the biggest factors in the uplift of the Browns. They have played in sensational style—peppery and in the game every minute.

Burns and Kavanaugh have even the needed strength to the Tigers in the field. They are as fast as lightning on the field and both are timely hitters. Nuhoff has been a great help to the Reds.

Puckey Mel and his blade is due for a disappointment if she thinks Puckey will make good his promise to give her the lightweight championship as a gift. Puckey could keep his promise if he got a chance at Welch, but in view of the fact that he gave English Freddie two beatings a few years back it's a bet that Freddie won't take a chance at losing his title by taking on the Chicago fighter again.

Quite a number of persons who scoffed at Bill Carrigan's remarks two months ago have ceased the scoffing business. Bill while in Chicago said:

"The Red Sox still have a fine chance to top the pennant."

At that time Bill's team was in the rut. Instead of being aimed in the direction of the top it was headed the other way, and then came the turn.

Joe Wood did a comeback. His speaker began clabing 'em out, the team got together and since then he has been playing the brand of ball that may yet land them at the top.

WHAT AILS BASEBALL GAME?

Pretty Well Established That Something Is Wrong With the Great Professional Pastime.

With Clark Griffith announcing that Connie Mack is a cheap skate, the managers of organized baseball by mouning the present condition and prospects of the game the players dissatisfied with their contracts, and discouraging reports of attendance from half a dozen or more towns, it seems to be pretty well established that something is wrong with the professional game, says the New York Sun. Everybody's nerves are on edge and the situation promises to become more mixed as the season years on.

Is it beyond probability that the public has had a decided effect on the game? Not in a case of plunk but of the business or quasi business character of the game the return of players threats of resignation and winter long vacations between this and the future. But on the Federal league and on the players who have signed their contracts for one thing, has become very tiresome and it is not the only factor at work to lessen public enthusiasm.

DRESSING FOR SHEAR CUTS

Mixture of Turpentine, Tar and Oil is Recommended for Healing and Keeping Flies Away.

The following dressing is recommended by the Shepherd's Journal for sheep wounds.

For clean cuts a good dressing, to prevent the fly from settling on the wound, is a mixture of one part turpentine, one part Stockholm tar and two parts salad or olive oil. The turpentine is cleansing and its strong smell keeps the flies off, but being very volatile it would soon evaporate if used alone.

Tar is healing, and being strong smelling is objectionable to the fly. It also adheres to the wool and flesh and assists to retain the turpentine. Salad or olive oil tends to soften the severe effects of the tar and turpentine also to a great extent prevents the tar from injuring the wool.

The same mixture is very effective also in destroying the maggots after the sheep are bled, and in healing wounds made by them. Any lubricating oil or ordinary fat will serve as a substitute to mix with the tar and turpentine.

Fertile Eggs Keep Longer.

Some people still think that hens which run with the rooster lay more eggs than hens that are kept separate. This is not the true state of the case at all, as anyone can test by experiment. But eggs laid by hens with no male mate—infertile eggs they are called—will keep much longer and at a higher temperature than will fertile eggs. It is really much better for the hens, for the roosters and for eggs that the sexes be separated and kept separate after the hatch season is over.

Manure the Garden.

One place on the farm where it pays to manure the land often and liberally is the garden and truck patch. This should receive a liberal application every year, for from this acre properly managed and cultivated, more than half the living for the family may be produced.

Hogs as Soil Improvers.

We know of no cheaper easier and more profitable way to bring up the soil than by making a field into a hog pasture for two or three years. It will help matters along also if the grain is fed to the hogs all over the field instead of in one corner.

Make a Creep for the Pigs.

By all means make a creep for the little pigs a place where they can get in to be fed where the larger hogs cannot come. And while we are speaking of feeding young pigs let us not forget that too much sloppy feed is not good for them.

Food for Growing Chickens.

Do not depend on too much mash food for young growing chicks. Give the growing and developing gizzards something to do some grist to grind, or they will not develop as they should.

But just wait until King Menelik,
of Abyssinia, enters the war game.

Good evening! Keep your weather
eye open for a visitation from Jack Frost as he is likely to make his appearance almost any night now.

And then, a war in Europe would
give the middlemen in the United States an excuse for increasing the
prices of the necessities of life.

The prisoner in the county jail who
says he has stolen thirty-nine hundred chickens in his lifetime must have been making a collection of wish
bones.

With the trout season closed the
angler who catches his while seated in
an easy chair in the cigar store is as
big a fellow as the angler who actually fishes for trout in the streams
of the county.

Parents of boys who steal fruit
might be made to see the seriousness
of the offense if they were to be compelled to pay the costs of a suit
for trespass and malicious conduct
brought by an irate property owner.

Dog taxes amounting to a little over
two hundred dollars are levied in this
town, indicating that there are about
two hundred members of the canine
family in Clearfield. Judging from
the noise they make some nights there
must be about two thousand untaxed
curs in the town.

ON WITH THE DANCE.

Russia told Germany that the order for the partial mobilization of the Russian army, having been issued,
could not be revoked. Germany there-
upon decided, it is reported, to mobilize her own army and protect her
frontiers from probable Russian or French invasion. In the general mix-
up that is pretty certain to follow
England and France, together with a number of second and third class nations are certain to be involved.

Already the mere threat of war has resulted in the closing of the principal
stock markets in the United States
and Europe. Possibly no great harm
would be done if all of the stock exchanges were to close and remain
closed, but the fact that business has
been suspended in the exchanges
shows that the money gamblers regard the situation in Europe as being most critical. There is nothing in the world more timid than

money.

It is probably useless to hope that some near-miracle will be worked
whereby a general European war may be averted. If such a war is waged
it will be the most horrible in its devastation of any war in the history
of the world. The slaughter of human beings will be terrible and the loss in money will be enormous. And after it is all over the nations will
ask why this sacrifice of human life
and property could not have been prevented. Modern civilization halts before human greed and human selfishness.

CLEARFIELD AND DUBOIS.

The statement of the assessed valuation of taxable property in Clearfield
borough and DuBois city, together
with the amount of taxes the citizens
of each municipality pay, shows that Clearfield has an assessed valuation
of about one hundred thousand dollars
below that of DuBois, although the latter claims a population of almost
twice that of Clearfield.

It must be plain that the assessment in Clearfield is too high or that
the assessment in DuBois is very much too low. A property owner does not object to a tax which is justly
levied, but if he is compelled to pay
more tax than another citizen, although both own the same class of
property the taxpayer is likely to object. There is no justice in an assessment which demands the payment
by the Clearfield citizen of more taxes
than are paid by a citizen of DuBois.

Wise men have attempted for years
to bring about an equalization of taxation, without success. No system
of assessing will be satisfactory unless it is intelligently, justly and im-
partially made, and it is impossible
to expect such assessment so long as assessors without knowledge of real estate values are employed to do the work. The assessors in DuBois do not make a fair assessment, or else
Clearfield real estate is far more valuable than that in the town along the
Low Grade division.

THIS IS WHAT WAR MEANS

Multiply this picture of the mother and the dead son by one hundred thousand, and you have a true picture of war.
The war talk is of glory and noble deeds. But this is the REAL war picture.
How many young men are to die now to punish ONE criminal, fanatic Serbian for killing ONE Austrian—who happened to be the Emperor's relative and heir? That is the question for Europe to answer. How many lives, each as valuable as that of Prince Ferdinand, must pay for his death?

IN THE MOVIES

"The Severed Hand" is a 3-reel
Powers drama which will be shown
at the New opera house this evening.

This is a play with a deep underlying plot, containing exciting adventures and thrilling scenes. Just such a play as will interest you after
the dull day we have had.

Universal Ike has come to us again
in this funny comedy. "Universal Ike's Wooing." His last performance
where he came near being buried

alive was comical, but this is even better. Shown to-night at the New opera house.

The "Perils of Pauline" attracted
a large crowd at the New opera
house last evening. And the audience
was greatly pleased with the series,
which grows better with each one
as if author and player grew more
interested as the story progressed.
Hearty applause from the audience
followed many of the interesting
scenes.

CONTROL OF THE CORN SMUT

Disease Cannot Be Restrained by Treating Seed—One-Year Rot-
ation Is One Recommendation.

(By W. W. ROBBINS, Colorado Agricultural College.)

The question is frequently asked:
Can corn smut be controlled by treating the seed? It cannot. For the most part, corn smut spores rest over
the winter in the soil or in the manure
pile. Infection of the corn plant may
take place at any time during its life,
although usually not until it has attained a height of two or three feet.
Furthermore, infection may take place
in any part of the plant where there
is fresh growing tissue.

Corn should never be planted on
soil that grew a smutted crop the previous year. A one-year rotation is usually sufficient to destroy a large number of smut spores resting over in the soil. Remove and burn the smut-
ted masses on the young plants. Corn
smut spores pass through the alimentary canal of stock without having
their germinating power destroyed.
This probably explains the fact that
fields heavily manured often suffer
more from corn smut than those
lightly manured or not manured at all.
The spores, however, do not live long
in the manure. Hence old manure is better than fresh to spread on a corn-
field. It is known that some varieties
of corn are more susceptible to smut
than others and it is also very probable that a variety that is not acclim-
ated is more subject to smut than
one well acclimated.

ATTENTION TO YOUNG FOALS

Within an Hour After Arrival of Colt
It Should Be Standing and Getting First Milk.

(By L. C. BARNES, Colorado Experiment Station.)

If the mare foals in barn, one
should provide her with a roomy box
stall with plenty of straw. Within an hour after the arrival of the colt
it should be standing and getting its first nourishment. If it cannot stand
give it help, as the first milk is valuable not only as a food but also as a natural purge which aids the digestion of the milk.

It is well to put a wide bandage
around the body of the colt and protect the navel from becoming infected
from the stable. Some use a dusting

powder of equal parts tannic and boric
acid on the navel before applying the bandage. The navel should be kept
protected until it becomes dry.

If the colt strains considerably soon
after birth one should relieve this suffering by warm water injections. If
the first feces are very hard a dose of
raw linseed oil will be advisable.

Berwick Citizens Aver They Saw Pictures of Children and Angel

Berwick, Pa., Aug. 1—With three
responsible residents of Hettlerville,
near here, telling of strange pictures they saw outlined in the skies,
the superstitious are looking for a calamity.

Harry Hudleson was returning
from Nescopeck when his attention
was attracted to the sky, and, he says, he was startled to see a
picture of an immense house, filled
with children dressed in white, with
a black band on the arm of each.

As he stood looking, the children
came out of the house in columns of
two, dividing at the door, with each
column going in an opposite direction.
He says he was not dreaming, and
the sight was too plain to be mistaken.

Later he learned that Mrs. Rush
Lutz, a neighbor, also had seen an immense house on the sky. The effect was that of a picture throw-
on the screen.

Miss Pearl Pursel, knowing nothing of the experiences of the others
made known that she had seen the form of an angel outlined in the heavens.

PARADISE.

Miss Sara Irvin left Wednesday for a three weeks visit with friends and relatives in Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

As it was told to me: A certain Paradise musician while playing for a dance was very much surprised when a bee politely stung him on the face. It came as such a surprise that the gent forgot his position and grabbing for the bee caught hold of his tie pin and in the presence of all was saying, "I'm a leading musician from Paradise and will not be stung by anything." The young man fit very much embarrassed when he came to his senses, and topped it off by starting to play, "You are my honeysuckle, and I got the bee."

Mrs. James Carns spent Monday in Goshen.

Mrs. Lizzi Butler spent Wednesday with her sister Mrs. John McCool.

Three of our prominent men took several days off and went to the mountain for berries. At dusk they started for Paradise with baskets and buckets well filled after two days of hard labor. They thought they were surely on the path homeward, but when they came into civilization found themselves in Rockton. Knowing of no other way home than by a freight train they decided to take that plan. We are sorry to state one of the gentlemen came home empty handed, leaving all his berries along the track while trying to board the passing train. We are very much in sympathy with this man and hope he will have better luck in the future.

Mrs. Martin Hippler, Mrs. Roland Toot, Miss Ethel Toot, Messrs. Ray Lansberry and Clarence Toot were sight seeing in our town Thursday and took dinner at Carnes.

Miss Grace Hunchbarger entertained a number of her friends at her home Wednesday evening. All report a fine time.

Mrs. G. G. Irwin has returned home after a few days visit at Millroy.

Chas. Pool pitched a game of ball for the Woodland boys Saturday afternoon, his side winning the game by a score 3-1. Pool is some pitcher and when the game is not in his favor isn't his fault.

The dances given in Manahan Grove are largely attended every Thursday evening.

Everybody is wondering why the Curwensville and Woodland fellows are more prominent in Paradise than our own boys.

Burned Bush on Farm.

The big light which was noticed by so many people last evening and which seemed to be in the vicinity of Pine Grove was caused by the burning over of a large field on James Mitchell's farm. Fire was set to the field in two places to remove the brush and undergrowth which had sprung up.

Earl Phillips and George Worman returned home from a ten days camping trip at McGee's Mills with the Y. M. C. A. campers. They report having had the time of their lives.

PENNSY IMPROVING ITS SIGNAL SYSTEM

Will Cost Company $6000,000 to Make Changes Planned

With the completion on September 1st of an elaborate plan of improvements in its automatic block system, the Pennsylvania railroad will have more four-track lines operated under automatic signals than any railroad in the world.

At a cost of $6,000,000, the Pennsylvania railroad has in the past three years equipped 253 miles of its main lines with automatic signals.

On September 1st, the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad between Pittsburgh and New York, and Philadelphia and Washington will be equipped with automatic signals.

The signal system on the Pennsylvania railroad east of Pittsburgh and Eric represents an estimated investment of approximately $18,000,000. The difficulty in arriving at more than an approximate figure is due to the fact that many changes have been made in the signals from time to time in the past thirty years. The electro-pneumatic interlocking switch and signal system in the New York station and on the electric line between Sunnyside Yard, L. I., and Manhattan Transfer, N. J., alone cost $1,750,000.

It takes a normal force of 1800 men to maintain the Pennsylvania's signal system. It costs to keep these signals in order no less than $1,500,000 a year.

B. R. & P. Shows Improvement.

The Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railway company has declared a semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent on its common stock. The last previous disbursement on the issue was 3 per cent, on February 16. The company has also declared the usual semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on its preferred stock. Both dividends are payable August 15 to holders of record August 10.

The company reports for June and for the fiscal year as follows: Operating revenue $89,117, decrease $26,349; net operating revenue $271, 71, decrease $52,743; operating income $247,376; decrease $57,686; gross corporation income $304,802, decrease $76,697; net corporation income $143,511, decrease $73,793. Fiscal year. Operating revenue $5,889, 513, decrease $238,709; net operating revenue $2,771,469, decrease $565,879; operating income $1,524,575, decrease $523,410; gross corporation income $3,355,795, decrease $718,903; net corporation income $1,344,784, decrease $772,305.

In its fiscal year, ended June 30, 1914, the American Locomotive company had net earnings applicable to dividends of about $2,000,000 or sufficient to meet the full disbursements of $1,750,000 on its preferred stock and leave a balance equal to about one per cent on the common stock. In the previous fiscal year, the company earned 17.74 per cent on its common stock after all other charges.

AUSTRIA, GERMANY AND ITALY VERSUS RUSSIA, GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE

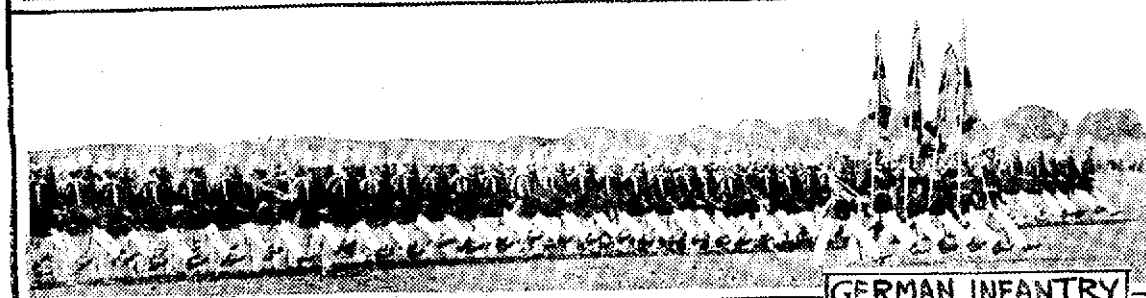

Lineup of the Great Powers Behind Austria's Army on One Side and the Army of Serbia on the Other

ITALIAN SOLDIERS

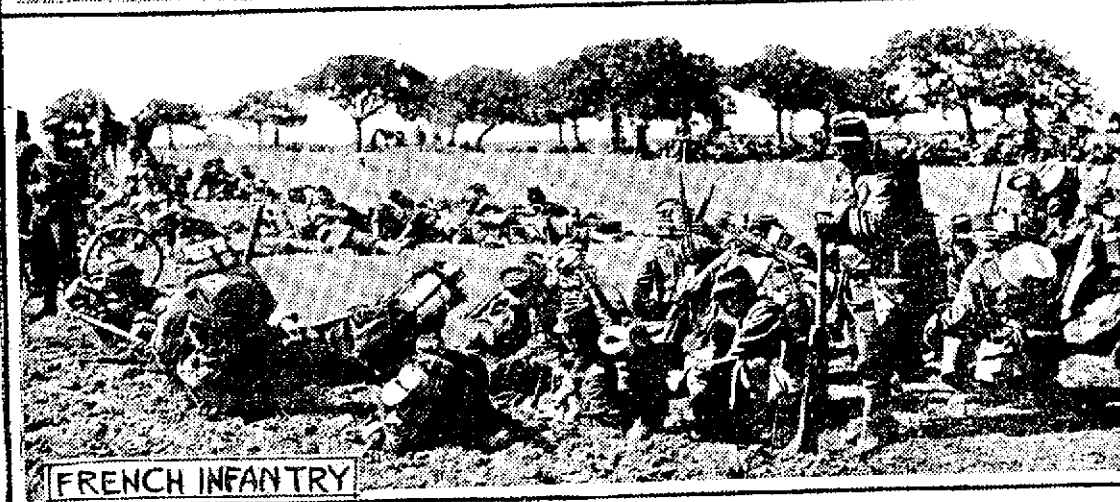

RUSSIAN COSSACKS

GERMAN INFANTRY

BRITISH ARTILLERY

FRENCH INFANTRY

WITH tense interest the whole world is watching the development of the situation between Austria and Serbia. What shall be its immediate result, what its final outcome? Although Serbia backed down on July 23, will this quarrel between neighbors extend beyond its original territory and eventually involve all the great powers of Europe in a general war?

That Austria would be supported by Germany should Russia decide upon hostile measures in support of Serbia was considered absolutely certain. Both Austria and Germany are next door neighbors of Russia and are united in the common interest of preventing Slav expansion and aggression in the Balkan peninsula. Whether Italy, the third power in the triple alliance, would actively support Austria was a question open to speculation. It is true that the terms of the alliance make it practically obligatory for Italy to lend its support to Austria and Germany in the event of a war with Russia, but it is believed by many that owing to Italy's close relations to Montenegro, which is outspokenly friendly to Russia, and in view of certain internal conditions Italy may remain neutral.

Whether England and France, the other great western powers, would eventually side with Russia was a question of deep concern to all Europe. France, being a rather close ally of Russia and naturally hostile to Germany, may consider this a welcome opportunity to seek redress from its hereditary foe for the taking away of Alsace-Lorraine in 1871 and may enter into the general mixup with that end in view.

Attitude of Minor Powers.

That an outbreak of hostilities between Austria and Serbia may arouse a sympathetic wave among the bel-

AUSTRIA'S ULTIMATUM.

The Austrian ultimatum to Serbia contained the following demands:

First.—The Serbian government must publish official disavowal of its connection with anti-Austrian propaganda.

Second.—The Serbian government must make a vigorous investigation of the part played by Slavs in the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, and his wife.

Third.—Serbia must suppress all the pan-Slavic societies which are carrying on a political campaign against Austria.

Fourth.—Serbia must suppress the activities of Slav agents in Bosnia and Herzegovina who are working for the detachment of territory from Austria.

Illegent and intensely clannish peoples of the Balkan peninsula is extremely likely. Montenegro has already announced that it will give its support to Serbia, and this may prompt the other minor powers of the Balkans to take sides in accordance with their racial, religious and political interests. Roumania, at one time a staunch ally of Russia, is no longer friendly to that power—at least, not to the extent of fighting for it. It is believed that Roumania will remain neutral in the fight and will carefully guard its territory against encroachments by either of the hostile powers. Only in the event that Bulgaria should decide upon giving active support to Austria is it believed that Roumania would abandon its neutrality and attack Bulgaria. Turkey, Greece and the other eastern powers of Europe may not be drawn into the conflict in the beginning, but in view of the intense feeling of racial jealousy and hatred between the Mohammedan and the Christian elements struggling for supremacy in that part of Europe it is doubtful that they will remain neutral through the entire conflict.

The Strength of the Armies.

Germany, with 316 ships in her navy and an estimated war strength of land forces amounting to 2,250,000 men, leads the nations involved in military power. Russia is next, with 166 ships and an estimated fighting force of 1,845,000 men. Austria has 114 ships and can probably put 1,500,000 men in the field if necessary.

Of the sea fighters Germany has 33 battleships to Russia's 9 and Austria's 13; 108 torpedo boats of all classes to Russia's 203 and Austria's 72; 23 submarines to Russia's 20 and Austria's 6. The rest of the naval strength is confined to cruisers, eliminating the non-fighting craft in the three navies.

Russia's standing army in peace is not much less in numbers than her war strength, being 1,500,000 men. Germany supports 672,000 men in her army at all times. Austria has 425,881 and Serbia 30,038. All require continuous military service. Russia's demands being the greatest, with a term of from three to four and one-third years.

During the last few years Russia's entire army has been reorganized, retrained and reequipped, and a new navy is in course of construction.

While Austria can put an army of 1,500,000 in the field, there are also available for duty 200,000 unorganized men.

Serbia has a field army of only about 100,000, with a reserve imperfectly organized of 100,000 more of a total population of 3,000,000. These figures, however, do not tell the whole story. Serbia belongs to a race of fighters. All the men and nearly all the women know how to shoot and to defend themselves.

BANKS WILL TAKE ENTIRE BOND ISSUE

Make Proposition to Borough Council Which Was Accepted

A special meeting of borough council was held last evening for the purpose of considering the proposition of the Clearfield banks to take over the entire improvement bond issue. The banks offer to subscribe for all of the bonds at four and one-half per cent., paying a premium therefor amounting, it is believed, to between $400 and $500.

The banks stated that they would be willing to do this, or they would accept borough orders for such work as council may wish to do this year at the rate of four and one half per cent., giving council opportunity to endeavor to sell the bonds to private individuals in the meantime.

The councilmen regarded this proposition such a fair one that they accepted it at once. The street commissioner and highway committee were instructed to proceed at once with the work of repairing North Second street, from Locust street to the river bridge, and the fire committee was directed to hurry up the data for the new fire houses, in order that council may advertise for bids for the erection of the same this year.

Williams' orchestra to render selections at intervals.

The turnout at the morning service was large. District Superintendent S. B. Evans was in charge. Rev. E. M. Stevens offered the prayer and Rev. Dr. J. B. Stein read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Lulu Moran Anderson was the soloist. The hymns were sung in hearty Methodist style and the sermon by Rev. Dr. E. H. Yocum, of Bellefonte, was a masterpiece of eloquence.

It was one of those discourses that baffled reporter's pencil, abounding in illustrations that drove home the truth with telling effect. The text was "All are yours and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's" 1 Cor. iii: 22-23. St. Paul in this text was emphasizing the richness of the Christian heritage. The different churches now, as the variations in allegiance of that day to Paul, Apollos or Cephas, are but the slices through which the teaching of the truth is to run.

The special music of the afternoon consisted of a solo by Mrs. C. H. Williamson and a duet by W. L. McEldowney and Mrs. Lulu Moran Anderson. During the singing of the duet, "My faith looks up to thee," the vast audience paid the tribute of silence that is always the highest compliment.

The address of the afternoon was by Dr. W. S. Bovard, general secretary of the Methodist Brotherhood. His theme was "The Challenge of Our Day to Christian Manhood." The speaker was introduced by Dr. B. H. Mosser, Juniata district superintendent.

The soloist of the evening was D. Eugene Wentzel, of Bellwood, whose talent is too well known in this region to need comment.

The lecturer, Dr. J. F. Heisse, of Baltimore, is editor of the Methodist. He made his first appearance before a Methodist Day audience and his happy way of telling of his "Sights and Experiences in Touring Europe" won favor for him and many friends who will be glad to greet him when he returns.

OUTINGS

The Ladies Sewing club held a picnic at Mineral Springs park yesterday, going out on the 1 o'clock train. They were joined in the evening by their husbands, and a delicious picnic supper was served. The party returned in automobiles.

The teachers training class of the United Brethren church, East End, met at the Leg Cabin, near the Curry home, last evening, to go over the lesson for tomorrow. There were about twelve members of the class present, and despite the coolness of the evening, all enjoyed the occasion. The lesson was gone over in front of a big camp fire.

2500 WORKMEN MEET PINCHOT

ed many of the men to Mr. Pinchot.

Attack on Penrose Cheered.
The magistrate took Mr. Pinchot with him to the police court hearings at the Fourth street and Snyder avenue and the Dickinson street and Moyamensing avenue stations later in the morning. The candidate met the policemen changing shifts, and was present at hearings in both stations.

Through the delay at noon, Mr. Pinchot did not reach the meeting place at Randolph street and Columbia avenue until nearly 12:30. Five hundred workers in the carpet mills and packing houses located near this corner had waited for half an hour for him. When he found they had to return to work in a few minutes he made a short speech at once, outlining his stand against Penrose and explaining how the Penrose gang has forfeited the support of the workers of the state by their defeat of measures in their interest.

Cheered by the Workingmen.
He was cheered when he told these men that he came to them to ask for their help in "driving Boies Penrose and all his men from public life in this state." When he finished speaking he shook hands with the men as they went in to work.

From the middle of the afternoon until after 6 o'clock in the evening Pinchot stood at the Knorr street gate of the Disston saw works, Tacony. He met more men there than he has ever met before at one plant.

The men were anxious to greet the candidate. They came from the gates in small groups throughout the three hours of Mr. Pinchot's visit to the plant. They had plenty of time to stop and shake hands and receive the platform of the candidate. Later, as the numbers increased, men who had not an earlier chance to meet Mr. Pinchot returned and waited for a free moment that they might tell him of their good wishes.

Miss Luella and Mary Hartman, who have been spending a few days with their aunt, Mrs. Harry Brown, left Saturday morning for Camp Bonair, where they will join their parents and other friends in an outing.

A delightful reception was given by officers and members of the Presbytery church to the new members last night. In the receiving line were Rev. S. T. Lewis and daughter Margaret, W. P. Whitney and wife Harry Brown and wife and Prof. J. E. Radebach. On behalf of the congregation, Mr. Allard welcomed all present and, following a fine musical program, all present were served refreshments, consisting of ice cream cake and coffee. The violin playing of the Hartman sisters was greatly enjoyed. A reception was also given at the M. E. church at the same time.

The White House refused detailed information of the circumstances surrounding the handing of his passports to the German ambassador to Russia. That war is inevitable now, is the view of the administration.

Refuse Financial Aid.

London, Aug. 1.—The report is generally credited that Europe's financial leaders say they do not want war and will refuse to furnish funds. A leading financier made this statement. The Rothschilds are heading the movement to curb war. Government officials, frightened by the financiers' threats, are bluffing to preserve the national honor and the triple alliance. A plan has been reached damaging the triple entente and the whereby the war scare will be allowed to die down, the Austrian and Servian war ended and the political complexion of Europe united. French Railway Locomotive Seized by German Troops on Frontier

RUSSIANS AND GERMANS ARE WILD FOR WAR

Although England Still Hopes for Peace, She is Preparing for War—Serbs Said to Have Prevented Advance of Austrians Into the Morava Valley—St. Petersburg Excited Over the Prospect of Fighting—France Awaits the Action of Germany Before Making a Move Herself.

London, Paris and Vienna reported last night there is still hope that a general European war may be avoided. Austria and Russia have renewed "conversations" in an effort to reach an agreement.

But St. Petersburg reports that Russia expects no results from these peace parleys, because of Germany's attitude.

All army reserves in St. Petersburg were called to the colors.

Russian troops destroyed the frontier bridge on the Warsaw-Vienna railway, and abandoned the mail train to Berlin.

Germany established martial law and prohibited virtually all exports. The telephone line to Paris was closed at four o'clock.

All international trains into Germany were suspended by the Kaiser's government. Mobilization of the entire army is predicted for today.

England's fleet in the far east abandoned We-Hsi-Wei and sailed under sealed orders. The Chinese base will be Hongkong.

The huge battleship fleet of Great Britain is reported to be in the North Sea, ready for attack on the German fleet, at Kiel.

Serbs are reported to have hurled back the Austrian invaders, at Semendria. Fighting continues along the River Drina.

War a Question of Hours.

Paris, Aug. 1.—That war is apparently a question of hours was the belief admitted by the French foreign office today.

The officials said the hope for a peaceful outcome had been abandoned, and diplomatic "conversations" today indicated anything but a satisfactory outcome.

France has ordered the general mobilization of 4,000,000 soldiers on Sunday.

War Crowds Demand Speech.

Berlin, Aug. 1.—War crowds forced Chancellor Van Bethann Hollweg to make a speech today. He concluded his remarks by saying: "In the gravity of this hour I remind you of the words of Prince Frederick Karl to the men of Brandenburg, 'Let your heart beat to God, your fist to the enemy.'"

St. Petersburg Delirious for War.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—St. Petersburg populace is delirious for war. Throngs are parading the streets and ignore the government's appeal to be calm.

Mobilization of Reserves.

Vienna, Aug. 1.—General mobilization of the Austro-Hungarian reserves has been ordered.

May Leave Paris Tonight.

London, Aug. 1.—The French Embassy here has received information that the German ambassador to Paris Baron Von Schoen, has announced, though perhaps unofficially, that he would leave Paris tonight.

General War Inevitable.

Washington, August 1.—The latest advices from Berlin are to the effect that a general European war is certain.

England Has Not Heard of It.

The foreign office states that nothing is known of the report reaching President Wilson of the breaking off of diplomatic relations between Russia and Germany.

Lord Kitchener has been ordered to resume his command in Egypt. Preparations for the complete military take-over of England's railroads are being made.

Big Order for Cartridges.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 1.—One of the European governments has placed an order for fifty million rounds of cartridges with the Winchester repeating arms company here.

Four Vessels Recalled.

New York, Aug. 1.—The North German Lloyd steamship company has ordered the immediate recall of four vessels enroute or about to sail. The Steamer Willard, at Montreal, has been commanded to leave English territory and rush to Boston. Russian lines were also suspended.

German Consulate Closed.

Capetown, South Africa, Aug. 1.—The German consulate here has been closed, the consul general and his staff sailing on the German Steamer Safon.

Million Roubles for Red Cross.

Moscow, Aug. 1.—One million roubles, about a half million dollars, was voted by the municipal council for the Red Cross of Russia and nations friendly to Russia.

Has Russia Invaded Austria?

Berlin, Aug. 1.—Germany has been compelled to put the entire empire in the hands of troops because of the Czar's mobilization. A war decree has been issued and all German steamships and railways are held by the government. A report is in circulation that Russia is invading Austria. Heavy purchasing for the German army yesterday afternoon sent the price of food staples soaring 75 per cent.

Bridge Blown up by Russians.

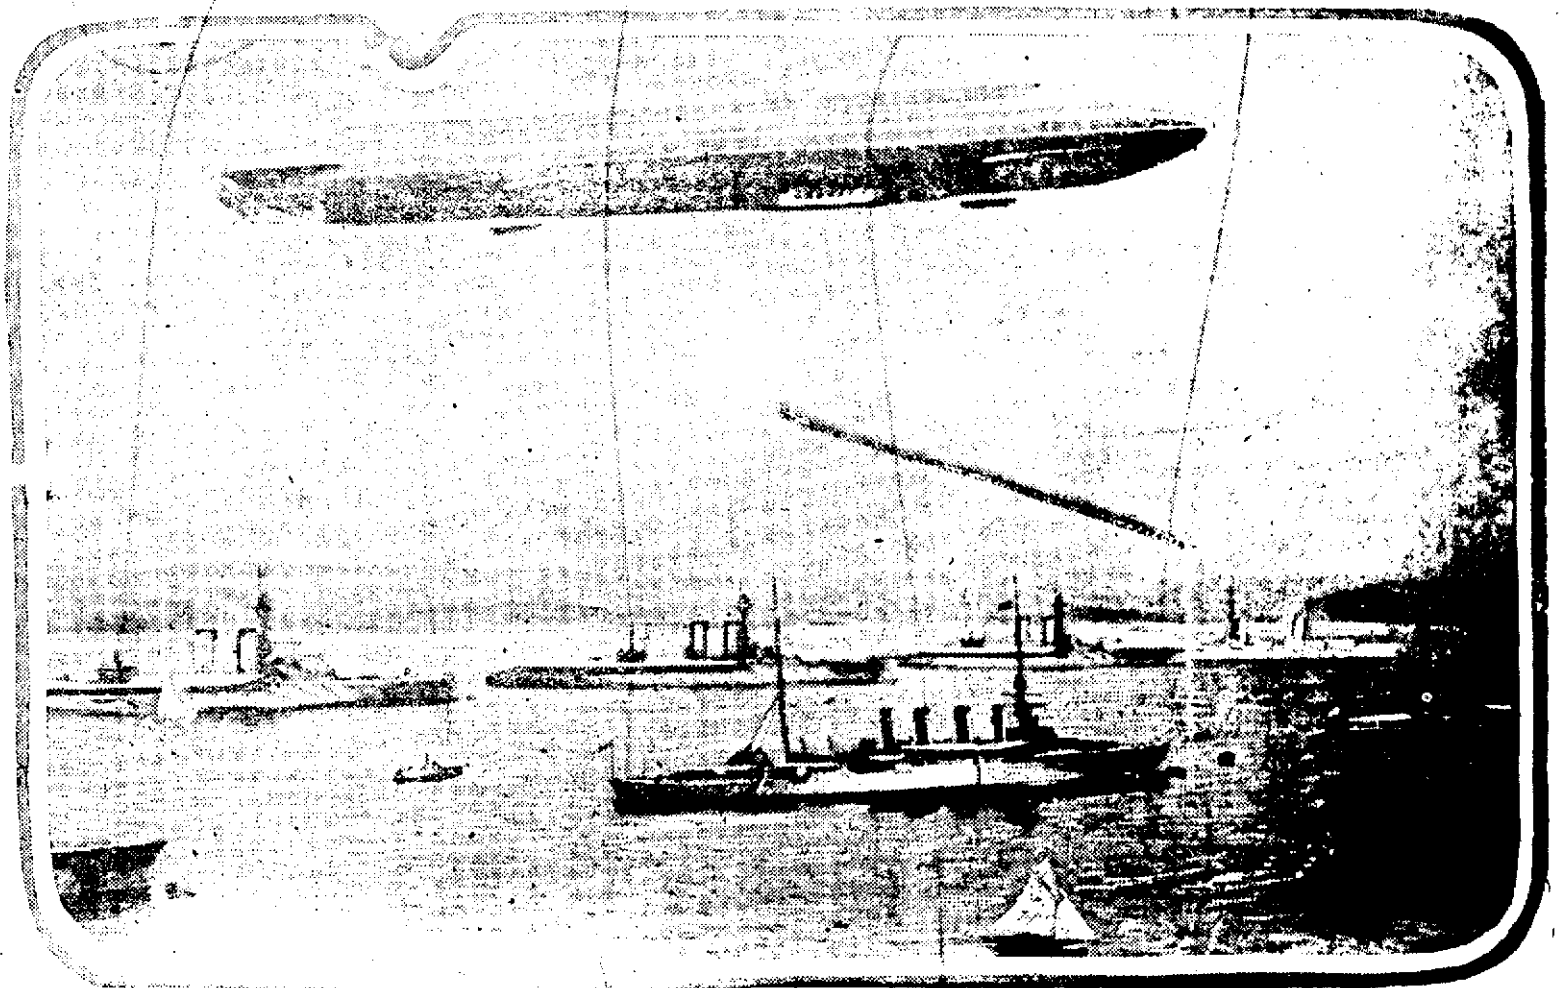

Berlin, Aug. 1.—(Passed by censor) A series of explosions were heard on the Russian side of the Austro-Russian frontier at Myslowitz early yesterday and the czar's troops are reported to have blown up a big bridge messages received here declare.

The bridge reported to be blown up is an important one on the Vienna-Warsaw railroad. Myslowitz is 116 miles southeast of Breslau.

English Troops Held Ready.

2500 WORKMEN MET BY PINCHOT

The Washington Party Candidate Broke All Records Thursday

MANY MEN PLEDGE SUPPORT

Friend of Labor Heartily Cheered When He Asked Carpet Mill and Packing House Employees to Help Him Drive Penroseism From the State.

Philadelphia, Aug. 1.—Gifford Pinchot, Washington party nominee for United States senator Thursday broke all records in his hand-shaking campaign when he grasped the hands of 2500 of the industrial workers of Philadelphia. In the enthusiasm of the men and in the number of pledges of support, it was the most remarkable day of his remarkable campaign.

Mr. Pinchot met a cordial reception in the morning at Water and Mifflin streets, where he greeted 1500 men going to work between 6 o'clock and 7:30. They live for the most part in the First and Thirty-ninth wards, dominated by Vane brothers.

Don't Like Penrose.

The working men had all heard of Pinchot and his fight against Penrose. When they saw the tall figure shaking hands they crossed the street in squads and formed in line, that they might meet the Progressive nominee.

Other men who passed on and heard their fellows talking about Pinchot turned back on their way to work to greet Mr. Pinchot.

His request, "Help me beat Boies Penrose," got hearty responses. One big fellow said: "I hope you beat him. We don't like that fellow, anyway." Another said: "You're the boy, Pinchot. You'll beat him." Another man's answer was: "My mind was made up long ago for you. I haven't any time for Penrose."

The Useless Penrose

Penrose is useless to Pennsylvania.

He has become a "moral issue" at Washington, just the same as here. He will never again be a factor in the senate.

Even now the leaders of the Republican party ostracize him. The New York Tribune, representing the most powerful element in the Republican ranks, and the historic mouthpiece of the party, has issued a trumpet call to the Republicans of Pennsylvania to defeat Penrose and elect Gifford Pinchot.

Not one Republican leader of national repute will come to Pennsylvania to battle for Penrose. He is a barnacle on his own party. He is recognized as the Jonah who alienated from it popular support. Until he is dropped no progress is possible.

The Republican leaders at Washington,—men who are trying to win the confidence of the country, will have none of him. They cannot afford to have the blight of Penroseism soiling their policies and they avoid him like a burnt child the fire.

He knows that. He knows he is not wanted there, even by his own party leaders.

Knowing this he has become the most conspicuous absentee of the senate. The Public Ledger of Philadelphia in a dispatch from its Washington correspondent, dated June 13, reported that according to the clerks of the senate, Penrose was continuously absent from the first week of January.

The official records showed that Penrose did not vote on a single measure that came before the senate since the Christmas holidays.

With the Democrats in control of the government, Penrose is as helpless in affairs as the most disreputable of his heelers.

The Republicans won't have him. The leaders of that party would just as soon take Penrose into a position of influence as they would nominate Standard Oil Archbold or crooked "Bill" Lorimer for the presidency.

Penrose is done, and the Republican leaders at Washington know it. The group of manufacturers who are spending money in Pennsylvania for Penrose know it. Their argument that Penrose would obtain good committee places in Washington if the Republicans came into power again is the rankest sort of buncombe.

They know and Penrose knows that he will never again be permitted to assume a place of influence at Washington. The Republican leaders want to save their party, they don't want to stand it up again to get another 1912 dose.

Penrose was at his summit when special privilege controlled the country and when Aldrich, Foraker, Lorimer and Smoot were in command.

Lorimer has been kicked out of public life in disgrace. Aldrich saw the storm of popular disapproval gathering and withdrew. Foraker dropped out and now Penrose is tottering at the edge,—a lonely antagonist of destiny.

His call will come in November and he will drop like the rest of his crowd,—like Aldrich, like Lorimer, like Foraker,—into the abyss of public disapproval.

With him will go the stench of the $25,000 certificate of deposit from Standard Oil; his record of support for the disgraceful and crooked Lorimer, his infamous title of having been one of the "brazen four" who attempted to rescue Archbold, the notorious Scranton judge who was dragged from the bench for irregularities by the United States senate.

In a last desperate effort to save himself Penrose is calling on the liquor interests, the beneficiaries of the special privilege tariff bill that he helped to frame; the coal barons whom he helped by defeating legislation sorely needed to protect the miner, and the great corporations whom he helped by inflicting on the people the present iniquitous public service law.

But the people of Pennsylvania who will elect a United States Senator will not elect Penrose.

Every honest Republican knows that Gifford Pinchot stands for a sound, honest, protective tariff. If he votes for Pinchot he votes for a protective tariff.

Every honest Republican knows that the leaders of his party who want to frame an honest tariff law for the benefit of the whole people, rather than for special privilege, can work much more effectively with Gifford Pinchot than with Boies Penrose.

Pinchot comes clean; Penrose doesn't. Pinchot stands for honest protection, Penrose stands for special privilege protection.

Pinchot stands for the kind of a protective tariff the people want; Penrose stands for the kind of a tariff the trusts and magnates want.

The people know the difference and that is the reason honest Republicans will help to put Penrose out of public life.

WAYS TO MAKE BROOM LAST

Care of the Article Will Result in Prolonging its Usefulness a Considerable Time.

Buy a good one. Before using, bring water to a boiling point, add salt pour over broom to toughen and make stronger. Do this at least once a week afterward.

Cut top of old stocking and run down over broom beyond the lines of stitching to hold parts together, and prolong usefulness.

Cut groove around top of handle; tie twine in same and always hang up. Do not stand it up, as that spreads it, loosening parts and wearing it out more quickly.

A screw eye inserted into top of handle is even a better convenience for hanging it up.

When worn short, cut last row and second row of stitching. Pull out twine loops. This will make it last a couple of months longer. Then cut third last row and prolong usefulness another few weeks.

An old sweater or piece of flannel made in shape of bag with drawstring at top, dipped in kerosene, wrung out and then slipped over an old broom and drawn up will make an excellent nap and dust gatherer on painted floors, under beds, etc.

A clean cotton bag made and used in the same way will dust down side walls and remove cobwebs without soiling paper or paint.

COVERING FOR SMALL TABLE

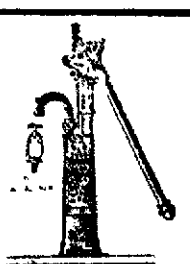

Case Where Scrap of Otherwise Unserviceable Material May Be Employed With Good Effect.

Have you a favorite small table whose top is hopelessly marred? If so, don't relegate it to the attic but try to cover its top neatly with some sort of substantial material that is in the house. Look about and see if there isn't something which will answer perfectly. Nearly always precisely such a scrap can be found. Figured damask fitted smoothly over the top of a table and secured to it with short, slender tacks concealed under a narrow tinsel glimp makes a pretty cover and so do any of the printed cretonnes edged with cotton glimp. Some people use the attractive square pillow tops if the tables surface is not too large for them to cover, and others use hand embroidered canvases. If one does not mind the expense of having a sheet of glass cut to the required dimensions, a really choice piece of handwork or an old print may be used under the protecting transparency. A wide strip of glimp pasted partly over the edges of the glass and partly over the edges of the table will firmly hold the double covering in position.

Chicken Croquettes.

The sauce for croquettes must be thicker than an ordinary white sauce. Use one quarter cupful of flour, two level tablespoonfuls of butter and one cupful of milk seasoned with onion juice and a dash of celery salt. Cook five minutes. To this amount of sauce add two cupfuls of chopped cooked chicken, mix well and cool. Shape into little rolls or cones. Beat one egg with a tablespoonful of water and roll the croquettes in this. Dip the eggs over all the surface so that it may be entirely coated then cover with sifted bread crumbs in the same way. Fry in smoking hot deep fat. Some tastes prefer two or three gratings of nutmeg in the sauce but this flavoring must be used with care.

Jerry On The Job

And Halfway Up The Hill, They Started Back

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

MELANGE OF LATEST SPORTING GOSSIP

BY FRANK G. MENNY
(By International News Service)

The American trotter and pacer breeders are at last have revolted against the practice of selling their best horses to European horse lovers. James Tranter, of the Fisir-Tipton company, returned a few weeks ago from an extensive trip throughout the country in quest record stallions and mares. And he returned almost empty handed.

"I offered some of the farciest prices on record," declares Tranter, "but as soon as the horse owners learned that I wanted the animals for European markets they refused to sell. It seems that the American breeders have banded together to frustrate any further attempts on the part of the European breeders to get the fast American horses.

The pugs evidently fail to realize the fact that summer is in our midst—and has been for six weeks or so. Instead of taking a rest, of getting from within the focus of the sporting spotlights so that others may have a chance, the pugs have been more prominently mentioned in the last six weeks than any other athletes.

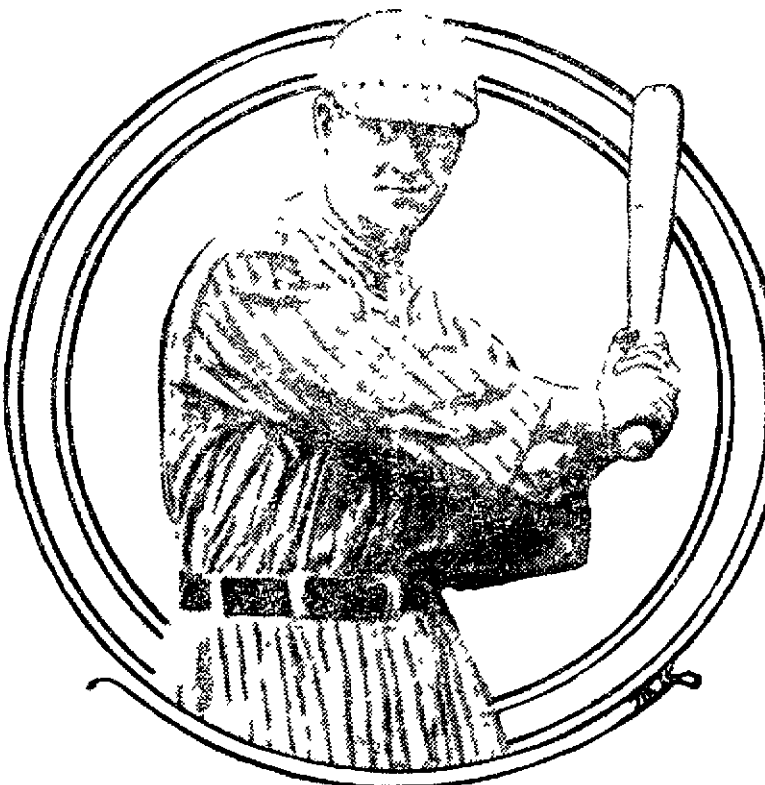

Since June 26 the Johnson-Moran, the Ritchie-Welch and Gombart Smith Carpentier fights have been staged—undeniably—the most important fights in more than a year. That they were all held in Europe didn't lessen the interest here, nor did it lessen the newspaper space that usually is given to such an event. When space is limited and a good portion goes to one subject—fighting—it means that the real summer sports must suffer in consequence.

The baseball public is being treated again to a rather thrilling spectacle—of seeing the veteran slubmen in the American and National leagues practically heading their respective organizations.

Mathewson of the Giants has been up around the top of the old league since the season began and it looks right now as if he will have the greatest year in his 14 year history as a big leaguer.

And Plank also in his fourteenth year has been pitching a better article of ball than at any time since he took up quarters under the big tent. It has been his work that has kept the Athletics in the front and may win the pennant for them. When others on the Athletic pitching roster have failed,

Benny Kauff, Fed Hitting Hoosier.

The Feds may not be offering as good a sample of the national pastime as the American and National leagues, but there is one individual enrolled with an outlaw team who defies his cap to no one. His specialty is hitting, and in that respect he equals any of the famous sluggers in the other circuit, not even excepting Ty Cobb of the Tigers.

This particular player is in our midst today and is a member of Bill Phillips Hoosiers. His name is Kauff Benny Kauff.

Russell Ford, star hurler of the Buffeds, and at one time a member of the New York Yanks, is authority for the above statement. Russ' words may be taken in all seriousness, for the former Highlander has faced Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and the recognized sluggers of the age. When the Buffalo team was here on its last visit, Ford, in an argument as to who

Kauff was lost to organized ball back in the days when Hal Chase was managing the Yarkoes. Hal had him, but refused to waste time in giving him a thorough trial. Kauff drifted to the New London club, and led the Eastern association with 176 hits in 135 games for a mark of 345. He possessed all of his hitting ability while with the Yanks, and feeling that he was being done an injustice had no hesitancy in joining the Feds when an offer was made him.

Kauff is the most dangerous hitter in the Hoosier circuit as well as being the best. His work has been a large factor in the success of Bill Phillips team.

ed, Plank has delivered—Plank the vet, who was counted down and out a dozen years ago by the "wise men" of baseball!

This seems to be a great year for recruit infielders. Among those who have "arrived" accompanied by many plaudits, are Stock of the Giants, Kavanaugh of the Tigers, O'Mara of the Dodgers, Leary and Wares of the Browns, Nuhoff of the Reds and Burns of the Tigers, seven.

The strangest part of it is that not one of these seven were heralded as of big league calibre. They were known to have certain ability but the ability looked to be on the bush league order—that is until they were given a chance. And then they came through with a rush.

Stock has plugged up the big hole at third left by the desertion of Tally Shafer. The Giants have missed Shafer since the season opened. O'Mara looks like one of the best shortstops in the National league. Early in the season Ebbets thought so little of him that he was thinking of letting him loose without giving him a chance to perform. But Dick Egan "cracked" and Ebbets gave O'Mara a chance. Now you couldn't buy O'Mara from C. Holiday for $20,000.

Leary and Wares have been two of the biggest factors in the uplift of the Browns. They have played in sensational style—peppery and in the game every minute.

Burns and Kavanaugh have even the needed strength to the Tigers in the field. They are as fast as lightning on the field and both are timely hitters. Nuhoff has been a great help to the Reds.

Puckey Mel and his blade is due for a disappointment if she thinks Puckey will make good his promise to give her the lightweight championship as a gift. Puckey could keep his promise if he got a chance at Welch, but in view of the fact that he gave English Freddie two beatings a few years back it's a bet that Freddie won't take a chance at losing his title by taking on the Chicago fighter again.

Quite a number of persons who scoffed at Bill Carrigan's remarks two months ago have ceased the scoffing business. Bill while in Chicago said:

"The Red Sox still have a fine chance to top the pennant."

At that time Bill's team was in the rut. Instead of being aimed in the direction of the top it was headed the other way, and then came the turn.

Joe Wood did a comeback. His speaker began clabing 'em out, the team got together and since then he has been playing the brand of ball that may yet land them at the top.

WHAT AILS BASEBALL GAME?

Pretty Well Established That Something Is Wrong With the Great Professional Pastime.

With Clark Griffith announcing that Connie Mack is a cheap skate, the managers of organized baseball by mouning the present condition and prospects of the game the players dissatisfied with their contracts, and discouraging reports of attendance from half a dozen or more towns, it seems to be pretty well established that something is wrong with the professional game, says the New York Sun. Everybody's nerves are on edge and the situation promises to become more mixed as the season years on.

Is it beyond probability that the public has had a decided effect on the game? Not in a sense of play, but of the business or quasi business character of the game. The return of players threats of retaliation and winter long vacations between this and the future. But on the Federal league and on the players who have signed their contracts for one thing, has become very tiresome and it is not the only factor at work to lessen public enthusiasm.

DRESSING FOR SHEAR CUTS

Mixture of Turpentine, Tar and Oil is Recommended for Healing and Keeping Flies Away.

The following dressing is recommended by the Shepherd's Journal for sheep wounds.

For clean cuts a good dressing, to prevent the fly from settling on the wound, is a mixture of one part turpentine, one part Stockholm tar and two parts salad or olive oil. The turpentine is cleansing and its strong smell keeps the flies off, but being very volatile it would soon evaporate if used alone.

Tar is healing, and being strong smelling is objectionable to the fly. It also adheres to the wool and flesh and assists to retain the turpentine. Salad or olive oil tends to soften the severe effects of the tar and turpentine also to a great extent prevents the tar from injuring the wool.

The same mixture is very effective also in destroying the maggots after the sheep are bled, and in healing wounds made by them. Any lubricating oil or ordinary fat will serve as a substitute to mix with the tar and turpentine.

Fertile Eggs Keep Longer.

Some people still think that hens which run with the rooster lay more eggs than hens that are kept separate. This is not the true state of the case at all, as anyone can test by experiment. But eggs laid by hens with no male mate—infertile eggs they are called—will keep much longer and at a higher temperature than will fertile eggs. It is really much better for the hens, for the roosters and for eggs that the sexes be separated and kept separate after the hatch season is over.

Manure the Garden.

One place on the farm where it pays to manure the land often and liberally is the garden and truck patch. This should receive a liberal application every year, for from this acre properly managed and cultivated, more than half the living for the family may be produced.

Hogs as Soil Improvers.

We know of no cheaper easier and more profitable way to bring up the soil than by making a field into a hog pasture for two or three years. It will help matters along also if the grain is fed to the hogs all over the field instead of in one corner.

Make a Creep for the Pigs.

By all means make a creep for the little pigs a place where they can get in to be fed where the larger hogs can't come. And while we are speaking of feeding young pigs let us not forget that too much sloppy feed is not good for them.

Food for Growing Chicks.

Do not depend on too much mash food for young growing chicks. Give the growing and developing gizzards something to do some grist to grind, or they will not develop as they should.

But just wait until King Menelik,
of Abyssinia, enters the war game.

Good evening! Keep your weather
eye open for a visitation from Jack
Frost as he is likely to make his appearance almost any night now.

And then, a war in Europe would
give the middlemen in the United States an excuse for increasing the
prices of the necessities of life.

The prisoner in the county jail who
says he has stolen thirty-nine hundred chickens in his lifetime must
have been making a collection of wish
bones.

With the trout season closed the
angler who catches his while seated in
an easy chair in the cigar store is as
big a fellow as the angler who actually fishes for trout in the streams
of the county.

Parents of boys who steal fruit
might be made to see the seriousness
of the offense if they were to be compelled to pay the costs of a suit
for trespass and malicious conduct
brought by an irate property owner.

Dog taxes amounting to a little over
two hundred dollars are levied in this
town, indicating that there are about
two hundred members of the canine
family in Clearfield. Judging from
the noise they make some nights there
must be about two thousand untaxed
curs in the town.

ON WITH THE DANCE.

Russia told Germany that the order for the partial mobilization of the Russian army, having been issued,
could not be revoked. Germany there-
upon decided, it is reported, to mobilize her own army and protect her
frontiers from probable Russian or French invasion. In the general mix-
up that is pretty certain to follow
England and France, together with a
number of second and third class nations are certain to be involved.

Already the mere threat of war has
resulted in the closing of the principal
stock markets in the United States
and Europe. Possibly no great harm
would be done if all of the stock ex-
changes were to close and remain
closed, but the fact that business has
been suspended in the exchanges
shows that the money gamblers regard the situation in Europe as being most critical. There is nothing in the world more timid than

money.

It is probably useless to hope that
some near-miracle will be worked
whereby a general European war may
be averted. If such a war is waged
it will be the most horrible in its de-
vastation of any war in the history
of the world. The slaughter of human beings will be terrible and the
loss in money will be enormous. And
after it is all over the nations will
ask why this sacrifice of human life
and property could not have been prevented. Modern civilization halts before human greed and human selfishness.

CLEARFIELD AND DUBOIS.

The statement of the assessed valuation of taxable property in Clearfield
borough and DuBois city, together
with the amount of taxes the citizens
of each municipality pay, shows that Clearfield has an assessed valuation
of about one hundred thousand dollars
below that of DuBois, although the
latter claims a population of almost
twice that of Clearfield.

It must be plain that the assessment in Clearfield is too high or that
the assessment in DuBois is very
much too low. A property owner does
not object to a tax which is justly
levied, but if he is compelled to pay
more tax than another citizen, although both own the same class of
property the taxpayer is likely to object. There is no justice in an assessment which demands the payment
by the Clearfield citizen of more taxes
than are paid by a citizen of DuBois.

Wise men have attempted for years
to bring about an equalization of taxation, without success. No system
of assessing will be satisfactory un-
less it is intelligently, justly and im-
partially made, and it is impossible
to expect such assessment so long as
assessors without knowledge of real
estate values are employed to do the
work. The assessors in DuBois do
not make a fair assessment, or else
Clearfield real estate is far more valuable than that in the town along the
Low Grade division.

THIS IS WHAT WAR MEANS

Multiply this picture of the mother and the dead son by one hundred thousand, and you have a true picture of war.
The war talk is of glory and noble deeds. But this is the REAL war picture.
How many young men are to die now to punish ONE criminal, fanatic Serbian for killing ONE Austrian—who happened to be the Emperor's relative and heir? That is the question for Europe to answer. How many lives, each as valuable as that of Prince Ferdinand, must pay for his death?

IN THE MOVIES

"The Severed Hand" is a 3-reel
Powers drama which will be shown
at the New opera house this evening.

This is a play with a deep under-
lying plot, containing exciting adventures and thrilling scenes. Just such
a play as will interest you after
the dull day we have had.

Universal Ike has come to us again
in this funny comedy. "Universal Ike's Wooing." His last performance
where he came near being buried

alive was comical, but this is even better. Shown to-night at the New
opera house.

The "Perils of Pauline" attracted
a large crowd at the New opera
house last evening. And the audience
was greatly pleased with the series,
which grows better with each one
as if author and player grew more
interested as the story progressed.
Hearty applause from the audience
followed many of the interesting
scenes.

CONTROL OF THE CORN SMUT

Disease Cannot Be Restrained by Treating Seed—One-Year Rot-
ation Is One Recommendation.

(By W. W. ROBBINS, Colorado Agricultural College.)

The question is frequently asked:
Can corn smut be controlled by treating the seed? It cannot. For the most part, corn smut spores rest over
the winter in the soil or in the manure
pile. Infection of the corn plant may
take place at any time during its life,
although usually not until it has attained a height of two or three feet.
Furthermore, infection may take place
in any part of the plant where there
is fresh growing tissue.

Corn should never be planted on
soil that grew a smutted crop the previous year. A one-year rotation is
usually sufficient to destroy a large number of smut spores resting over in
the soil. Remove and burn the smut-
ted masses on the young plants. Corn
smut spores pass through the alimen-
tary canal of stock without having
their germinating power destroyed.
This probably explains the fact that
fields heavily manured often suffer
more from corn smut than those
lightly manured or not manured at all.
The spores, however, do not live long
in the manure. Hence old manure is better than fresh to spread on a corn-
field. It is known that some varieties
of corn are more susceptible to smut
than others and it is also very prob-
able that a variety that is not acclim-
ated is more subject to smut than
one well acclimated.

ATTENTION TO YOUNG FOALS

Within an Hour After Arrival of Colt
It Should Be Standing and Getting First Milk.

(By L. C. BARNES, Colorado Experiment Station.)

If the mare foals in barn, one
should provide her with a roomy box
stall with plenty of straw. Within
an hour after the arrival of the colt
it should be standing and getting its
first nourishment. If it cannot stand
give it help, as the first milk is valuable not only as a food but also as a
natural purge which aids the digestion of the meconium.

It is well to put a wide bandage
around the body of the colt and protect the navel from becoming infected
from the stable. Some use a dusting

powder of equal parts tannic and boric
acid on the navel before applying the
bandage. The navel should be kept
protected until it becomes dry.

If the colt strains considerably soon
after birth one should relieve this suffering by warm water injections. If
the first feces are very hard a dose of
raw linseed oil will be advisable.

Berwick Citizens Aver They Saw Pic-
tures of Children and Angel

Berwick, Pa., Aug. 1—With three
responsible residents of Hettlerville,
near here, telling of strange pictures they saw outlined in the skies,
the superstitious are looking for a
calamity.

Harry Hudleson was returning
from Nescopeck when his attention
was attracted to the sky, and, he
says, he was startled to see a
picture of an immense house, filled
with children dressed in white, with
a black band on the arm of each.

As he stood looking, the children
came out of the house in columns of
two, dividing at the door, with each
column going in an opposite direction.
He says he was not dreaming, and
the sight was too plain to be mis-
taken.

Later he learned that Mrs. Rush
Lutz, a neighbor, also had seen an
immense house on the sky. The effect was that of a picture thrown
on the screen.

Miss Pearl Pursel, knowing nothing of the experiences of the others
made known that she had seen the
form of an angel outlined in the heavens.

PARADISE.

Miss Sara Irvin left Wednesday for a three weeks visit with friends and relatives in Pittsburg and Baltimore.

As it was told to me: A certain Paradise musician while playing for a dance was very much surprised

when a bee politely stung him on the face. It came as such a surprise that the gent forgot his position and grabbing for the bee caught hold of his tie pin and in the presence of all was saying, "I'm a leading musician from Paradise and will not be stung by anything." The young man fit very much embarrassed when he came to his senses, and topped it off by starting to play. "You are my honeysuckle, and I got the bee."

Mrs. James Carns spent Monday in Goshen.

Mrs. Lizzi Butler spent Wednesday with her sister Mrs. John McCool.

Three of our prominent men took several days off and went to the mountain for berries. At dusk they started for Paradise with baskets and buckets well filled after two days of hard labor. They thought they were surely on the path homeward, but when they came into civilization found themselves in Rockton. Knowing of no other way home than by a freight train they decided to take that plan. We are sorry to state one of the gentlemen came home empty handed, leaving all his berries along the track while trying to board the passing train. We are very much in sympathy with this man and hope he will have better luck in the future.

Mrs. Martin Hippler, Mrs. Roland Toot, Miss Ethel Toot, Messrs. Ray Lansberry and Clarence Toot were

sight seeing in our town Thursday and took dinner at Carnes.

Miss Grace Hunchbarger entertained a number of her friends at her home Wednesday evening. All report a fine time.

Mrs. G. G. Irwin has returned home after a few days visit at Mill-roy.

Chas. Pool pitched a game of ball for the Woodland boys Saturday afternoon, his side winning the game by a score 3-1. Pool is some pitcher and when the game is not in his favor isn't his fault.

The dances given in Manahan Grove are largely attended every Thursday evening.

Everybody is wondering why the Curwensville and Woodland fellows are more prominent in Paradise than

our own boys.

The big light which was noticed by so many people last evening and which seemed to be in the vicinity

the brush and undergrowth which had sprung up.

PENNSY IMPROVING ITS SIGNAL SYSTEM

Will Cost Company $6000,000 to Make Changes Planned

With the completion on September 1st of an elaborate plan of improvements in its automatic block system, the Pennsylvania railroad will have more four-track lines operated under automatic signals than any railroad in the world.

At a cost of $6,000,000, the Pennsylvania railroad has in the past three years equipped 253 miles of its main lines with automatic signals.

On September 1st, the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad between Pittsburg and New York, and Philadelphia and Washington will be equipped with automatic signals.

The signal system on the Pennsylvania railroad east of Pittsburg and Erie represents an estimated investment of approximately $18,000,000. The difficulty in arriving at more than an approximate figure is due to the fact that many changes have been made in the signals from time to time in the past thirty years. The electro-pneumatic interlocking switch and signal system in the New York station and on the electric line between Sunnyside Yard, L. I., and Manhattan Transfer, N. J., alone cost $1,750,000.

It takes a normal force of 1800 men to maintain the Pennsylvania's signal system. It costs to keep these signals in order no less than $1,500,000 a year.

AUSTRIA, GERMANY AND ITALY VERSUS RUSSIA, GREAT BRITAIN AND FRANCE

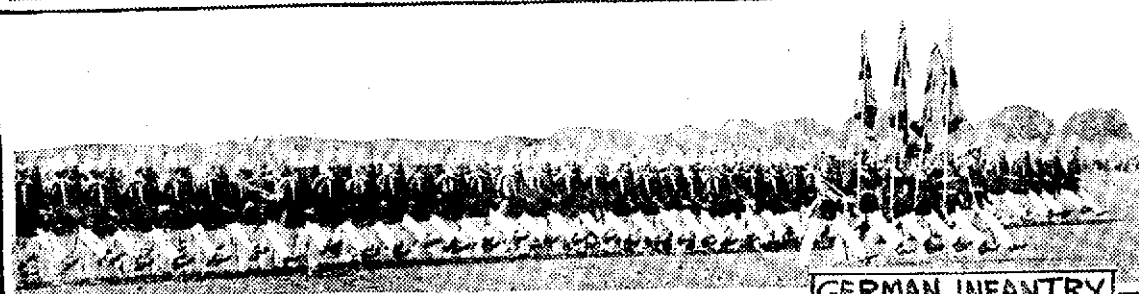

Lineup of the Great Powers Behind Austria's Army on One Side and the Army of Serbia on the Other

ITALIAN SOLDIERS

GERMAN INFANTRY

FRENCH INFANTRY

WITH tense interest the whole world is watching the development of the situation between Austria and Serbia. What shall be its immediate result, what its final outcome? Although Serbia backed down on July 23, will this quarrel between neighbors extend beyond its original territory and eventually involve all the great powers of Europe in a general war?

That Austria would be supported by Germany should Russia decide upon hostile measures in support of Serbia was considered absolutely certain. Both Austria and Germany are next door neighbors of Russia and are united in the common interest of preventing Slav expansion and aggression in the Balkan peninsula. Whether Italy, the third power in the triple alliance, would actively support Austria was a question open to speculation. It is true that the terms of the alliance make it practically obligatory for Italy to lend its support to Austria and Germany in the event of a war with Russia, but it is believed by many that owing to Italy's close relations to Montenegro, which is outspokenly friendly to Russia, and in view of certain internal conditions Italy may remain neutral.

Whether England and France, the other great western powers, would eventually side with Russia was a question of deep concern to all Europe. France, being a rather close ally of Russia and naturally hostile to Germany, may consider this a welcome opportunity to seek redress from its hereditary foe for the taking away of Alsace-Lorraine in 1871 and may enter into the general mixup with that end in view.

Attitude of Minor Powers.

That an outbreak of hostilities between Austria and Serbia may arouse a sympathetic wave among the bel-

AUSTRIA'S ULTIMATUM.

The Austrian ultimatum to Serbia contained the following demands:

First.—The Serbian government must publish official disavowal of its connection with anti-Austrian propaganda.

Second.—The Serbian government must make a vigorous investigation of the part played by Slavs in the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, and his wife.

Third.—Serbia must suppress all the pan-Slavic societies which are carrying on a political campaign against Austria.

Fourth.—Serbia must suppress the activities of Slav agents in Bosnia and Herzegovina who are working for the detachment of territory from Austria.

Illegent and intensely clannish peoples of the Balkan peninsula is extremely likely. Montenegro has already announced that it will give its support to Serbia, and this may prompt the other minor powers of the Balkans to take sides in accordance with their racial, religious and political interests. Roumania, at one time a staunch ally of Russia, is no longer friendly to that power—at least, not to the extent of fighting for it. It is believed that Roumania will remain neutral in the fight and will carefully guard its territory against encroachments by either of the hostile powers. Only in the event that Bulgaria should decide upon giving active support to Austria is it believed that Roumania would abandon its neutrality and attack Bulgaria. Turkey, Greece and the other eastern powers of Europe may not be drawn into the conflict in the beginning, but in view of the intense feeling of racial jealousy and hatred between the Mohammedan and the Christian elements struggling for supremacy in that part of Europe it is doubtful that they will remain neutral through the entire conflict.

The Strength of the Armies.

Germany, with 316 ships in her navy and an estimated war strength of land forces amounting to 2,250,000 men, leads the nations involved in military power. Russia is next, with 166 ships and an estimated fighting force of 1,845,000 men. Austria has 114 ships and can probably put 1,500,000 men in the field if necessary.

Of the sea fighters Germany has 33 battleships to Russia's 9 and Austria's 13; 108 torpedo boats of all classes to Russia's 203 and Austria's 72; 23 submarines to Russia's 20 and Austria's 6. The rest of the naval strength is confined to cruisers, eliminating the non-fighting craft in the three navies.

Russia's standing army in peace is not much less in numbers than her war strength, being 1,500,000 men. Germany supports 672,000 men in her army at all times. Austria has 425,881 and Serbia 30,038. All require continuous military service. Russia's demands being the greatest, with a term of from three to four and one-third years.

During the last few years Russia's entire army has been reorganized, retrained and reequipped, and a new navy is in course of construction.

While Austria can put an army of 1,500,000 in the field, there are also available for duty 200,000 unorganized men.

Serbia has a field army of only about 100,000, with a reserve imperfectly organized of 100,000 more of a total population of 3,000,000. These figures, however, do not tell the whole story. Serbia belongs to a race of fighters. All the men and nearly all the women know how to shoot and to defend themselves.

BANKS WILL TAKE ENTIRE BOND ISSUE

Make Proposition to Borough Council Which Was Accepted

A special meeting of borough council was held last evening for the purpose of considering the proposition of the Clearfield banks to take over the entire improvement bond issue. The banks offer to subscribe for all of the bonds at four and one-half per cent., paying a premium therefor amounting, it is believed, to between $400 and $500.

The banks stated that they would be willing to do this, or they would accept borough orders for such work as council may wish to do this year at the rate of four and one half per cent., giving council opportunity to endeavor to sell the bonds to private individuals in the meantime.

The councilmen regarded this proposition such a fair one that they accepted it at once. The street commissioner and highway committee were instructed to proceed at once with the work of repairing North Second street, from Locust street to the river bridge, and the fire committee was directed to hurry up the data for the new fire houses, in order that council may advertise for bids for the erection of the same this year.

Williams' orchestra to render selections at intervals.

The turnout at the morning service was large. District Superintendent S. B. Evans was in charge. Rev. E. M. Stevens offered the prayer and Rev. Dr. J. B. Stein read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Lulu Moran Anderson was the soloist. The hymns were sung in hearty Methodist style and the sermon by Rev. Dr. E. H. Yocum, of Bellefonte, was a masterpiece of eloquence.

It was one of those discourses that baffled reporter's pencil, abounding in illustrations that drove home the truth with telling effect. The text was "All are yours and ye are Christ's and Christ is God's" 1 Cor. iii: 22-23. St. Paul in this text was emphasizing the richness of the Christian heritage. The different churches now, as the variations in allegiance of that day to Paul, Apollos or Cephas, are but the slices through which the teaching of the truth is to run.

The special music of the afternoon consisted of a solo by Mrs. C. H. Williamson and a duet by W. L. McEldowney and Mrs. Lulu Moran Anderson. During the singing of the duet, "My faith looks up to thee," the vast audience paid the tribute of silence that is always the highest compliment.

The address of the afternoon was by Dr. W. S. Bovard, general secretary of the Methodist Brotherhood. His theme was "The Challenge of Our Day to Christian Manhood." The speaker was introduced by Dr. B. H. Mosser, Juniata district superintendent.

The soloist of the evening was D. Eugene Wentzel, of Bellwood, whose talent is too well known in this region to need comment.

The lecturer, Dr. J. F. Heisse, of Baltimore, is editor of the Methodist. He made his first appearance before a Methodist Day audience and his happy way of telling of his "Sights and Experiences in Touring Europe" won favor for him and many friends who will be glad to greet him when he returns.

OUTINGS

The Ladies Sewing club held a picnic at Mineral Springs park yesterday, going out on the 1 o'clock train. They were joined in the evening by their husbands, and a delicious picnic supper was served. The party returned in automobiles.

The teachers training class of the United Brethren church, East End, met at the Leg Cabin, near the Curry home, last evening, to go over the lesson for tomorrow. There were about twelve members of the class present, and despite the coolness of the evening, all enjoyed the occasion. The lesson was gone over in front of a big camp fire.

ed many of the men to Mr. Pinchot.

Attack on Penrose Cheered.

The magistrate took Mr. Pinchot with him to the police court hearings at the Fourth street and Snyder avenue and the Dickinson street and Moyamensing avenue stations later in the morning. The candidate met the policemen changing shifts, and was present at hearings in both stations.

Through the delay at noon, Mr. Pinchot did not reach the meeting place at Randolph street and Columbia avenue until nearly 12:30. Five hundred workers in the carpet mills and packing houses located near this corner had waited for half an hour for him. When he found they had to return to work in a few minutes he made a short speech at once, outlining his stand against Penrose and explaining how the Penrose gang has forfeited the support of the workers of the state by their defeat of measures in their interest.

Cheered by the Workmen.

He was cheered when he told these men that he came to them to ask for their help in "driving Boies Penrose and all his men from public life in this state." When he finished speaking he shook hands with the men as they went in to work.

From the middle of the afternoon until after 6 o'clock in the evening Pinchot stood at the Knorr street gate of the Disston saw works, Tacony. He met more men there than he has ever met before at one plant.

The men were anxious to greet the candidate. They came from the gates in small groups throughout the three hours of Mr. Pinchot's visit to the plant. They had plenty of time to stop and shake hands and receive the platform of the candidate. Later, as the numbers increased, men who had not an earlier chance to meet Mr. Pinchot returned and waited for a free moment that they might tell him of their good wishes.

Valetta, Malta, Aug. 1.—Incessant preparations proceeded among the large British garrison and also among the vessels of the British fleet here throughout Thursday night. All leave for officers and men has been stopped.

The authorities issued orders for a precautionary stage of mobilization, and as a consequence great activity was apparent in the dockyards.

Equivalent to Declaring War.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The White House was informed this morning that the German ambassador to Russia has been handed his passports and is preparing to leave St. Petersburg. This is believed to be Russia's notice to Germany that a state of war exists between the two countries.

The White House refuses detailed information of the circumstances surrounding the handing of his passports to the German ambassador to Russia. That war is inevitable now, is the view of the administration.

France Seizes Telephones.

Paris, Aug. 1.—The French government has taken over all of the telephone lines between France and London, to prevent the news relating to military movements from crossing the channel.

All telegraphic communication with Germany has been cut off. It is reported that a general mobilization of the French army has been ordered.

Refuse Financial Aid.

London, Aug. 1.—The report is generally credited that Europe's financial leaders say they do not want war and will refuse to furnish funds. A leading financier made this statement. The Rothschilds are heading the movement to curb war. Government officials, frightened by the financiers' threats, are bluffing to preserve the national honor and the triple alliance. A plan has been reached damaging the triple entente and the whereby the war scare will be allowed to die down, the Austrian and Servian war ended and the political complexion of Europe united. An American is apprised that J. P. Morgan yesterday issued an optimistic statement.
